Portfolio Construction

The Retirement Advocate Conservative Fund is a diversified asset allocation fund that invests primarily in fixed income instruments through mutual funds, ETFs, or other pooled funds. The primary investment objective of the Conservative Fund is relatively low risk (as measured by volatility) with much of the return expected to come in the form of interest income. The Conservative Fund will typically have an allocation of up to 20% equities (both domestic and international) and may utilize other alternative strategies to help it realize its investment objectives. The Fund may use both passive and active investment options. As financial markets and holdings fluctuate in value, the Fund is rebalanced to maintain its target asset allocation.

Investment Philosophy

The Retirement Advocate Fund series includes five distinct and broadly diversified CIFs. Each CIF has a different risk/reward profile as measured by volatility. Each strategy is based on a strategic asset allocation using multiple asset classes and strategies. Moneta deploys an investment philosophy that creates diversification, and does not attempt to time the market. Moneta couples this approach with disciplined rebalancing while continually managing the fees and expenses of the funds.

Units in CIFs are not deposits or obligations of, or endorsed or guaranteed by, TD Ameritrade Trust Company or its affiliates, and the units are not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation ("FDIC") or any other independent organization. The CIFs are also subject to investment risks, including possible loss of the principal amount. There is no assurance that the stated objective of a particular CIF will be achieved. CIFs maintained by TDATC are designed to serve the investment needs of tax-qualified retirement plans. The CIFs are not mutual funds registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, ("1940 Act"), and CIF unit holders are not entitled to the protections of the 1940 Act. In addition, the CIFs' units are not securities required to be registered under the Securities Act of 1933, or applicable securities laws of any state or other jurisdiction.

About Risk

There is no assurance that the stated objective of a particular CIF will be achieved. The potential risks applicable to the CIFs include, but are not limited to the following:

Market Risk. CIFs are subject to market risk, which is the chance that the value of the investments in the CIF may decline over time, causing a reduction in the value of the CIF. Stock markets tend to move in cycles, with periods of falling stock prices. Bond markets also usually move in cycles, with bond values being inversely related to the changes in interest rates. As interest rates rise, the value of a bond tends to decrease, and as interest rates declines, the value of a bond tends to increase.

Foreign Market Risk. A CIF that invests in funds holdings foreign securities may also be subject to the risk of investment in foreign markets. Investing in foreign markets can involve a greater level of risk, as there is often a lower degree of market volume and liquidity than in the U.S. markets, and this may result in higher price volatility. In addition, currency risk must also be considered. Foreign securities are denominated in foreign currencies, which may change in value in relation to the U.S. dollar, possibly for long periods of time. When a foreign currency declines in value in relation to the U.S. dollar, the return on foreign investments may likewise decline. Foreign governments may also intervene in currency markets or impose approval or registration processes, which could adversely affect the value of the CIF.

Real Estate Risk. A CIF that invest in funds holding real estate securities (e.g., REITs) involves many of the risk of investing directly in real estate such as declining real estate values, changing economic conditions and increasing interest rates, which could adversely affect the value of the CIF.

Commodity Risk. A CIF that invest in funds holding commodity investments is subject to commodity price fluctuations. Commodity prices generally fluctuate in relation to, among other things, the cost of producing commodities, changes in consumer demand for commodities, hedging and trading strategies of commodity market participants, disruptions in commodity supply, weather, as well as political and other global events, which could adversely affect the value of the CIF.

Small- and Mid-Cap Risk. A CIF that invest in small-capitalization and mid-capitalization companies may be subject to price volatility. The securities of both small capitalization and mid capitalization may trade less frequently and in smaller volume than larger, more established companies. Accordingly, their performance can be more volatile and they face greater risk of business failure, which could, depending on the allocation of the CIF's assets to such sectors, increase the volatility of a CIF's performance.

A particular CIF may or may not contain one or more of the asset types described above. Please refer to the asset allocation above.
